

Dr. Robert Kilroy

Overview

A genius and a prodigy, Robert has finished highschool at the age of 13, getting his first phd at the age of 18, he has been working up the ladder of academia for his entire life. As an autodidact with eidetic memory, while being capable of reading around 20.000 words per minute, Robert has taught himself anything and everything from languages to psychology to chemistry to engineering and many more topics by religiously reading books. This caused him to prefer written media over modern day digital media, but he can and does tinker with computers and modern electronics when he needs to. Nowadays, he works with the local police department and with FBI when needed as a criminal profiler.
