History

History

Isaac grew up a nerd, he was into nerdy things, he was out of shape, he was considered a loser by most people he knew. Growing up he spent most of his time studying and learning programming. Without friends or anything to distract him he became very skilled at programming. He found his way onto the dark web in early highschool and decided he needed to get in better shape if he was going to some of the things he wanted to, learn to break and enter, and set up monitoring systems quickly while keeping them and himself hidden. Hackers were bountiful if you knew where to look, but somethings required you to get into a physical location and possibly make an escape. Isaac didn't know he made a change in his appearance, he never talked to anyone and since he had headphones on nearly constantly he never heard people talking to him or about him. He was slowly becoming addicted however, but not to substance, or activity, but people. He had found an instagram model that he really liked....and she was looking for a security expert.....Maybe this was his chance.
