History

Mickey came from humble beginnings in Fremont California being cramped into an apartment with his family and a second family all under one roof. This naturally wasn't the best environment for a first generation American. He earned his nickname from locals being unable to say "Mikail" which they replaced with "Michael" which then became "Mickey". At the age of 12 Mickeys family couldn't put him into any extracurricular activities so he found himself roaming around his local library and museums. This resulted in Mickey being more brain than brawn. Mickey began to excel at the arts winning his first ever art contest that same year. His life of achievements was stunted due to his family not wanting to have an artist in the family due to them finding it effeminate. Mickey found himself having to resort to living alone in his college dorm relying on support from his older cousins and scholarship from his community college. Mickey strapped for cash found himself living in a dorm. The schools head visual arts chairman took a liking to Mickey instantly. Mickey found himself attending art gallerys and student animation film festivals with him. Mickey didn't think much of it, that was until he was given a vampiric embrace. Mickey at first was offered it but refused. That was until his professor started to bully him into accepting it and threatening him if he didn't become part of his "Trophy collection" for there was no better work of art to him than him making someone into the perfect artist and forevermore their art would somewhat be because of him. Mickey stopped refusing when his professor started to bring up how he could easily just kill his family and get him expelled for claiming all of Mickeys art was his. Mickey gave in and became one of his pets. Eventually he and the others from the college who were forced to be vampires throughout the ages a year into his vampirism took down the cruel man and anyone on his side and all fled California. Mickey found himself surfing all over the US as a free spirited artist. He currently has found work in Baltimore.
